

GELENCSÉR, ANDRÁS, University of Pannonia

Gelencsér, András is a chemical engineer, who was appointed Head of the Air Chemistry Research Group and served as Head of the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences at the University of Pannonia. He was elected Vice Dean for Economic Affairs of the Faculty of Engineering, and was appointed Rector's Commissioner for Economic Affairs of the University of Pannonia. He served as Vice Dean for Strategy and Scientific Affairs of the Faculty of Engineering. In 2015, he was elected and appointed Rector of the University of Pannonia. His main research area is atmospheric aerosol chemistry related to air pollution and climate change. He is member of the editorial board of Springer and AAQR.